

ABRAMS' ELECTRONIC BRAIN DIAGNOSIS BRANDED AS 'FRAUD'

STOCK TO THROBBES IN HUB

They Have Paid Hard Earned Cash for So-Called "Reaction" Tests

The so-called Electronic Reactions of Abrams, a method of diagnosis that has caused a storm of controversy in the medical world, has been branded as a utterly worthless by the Scientific American.

The Scientific American Abrams Investigating Committee, after more than a year of study and examination, has reported that at best the technique is "a bit of a fraud; at worst, it is a colossal fraud."

The Abrams method, it is also known, is long practiced extensively in New York and the report of the Scientific American will come as a distinct shock to the hundreds of persons who have paid hard-earned cash for the treatment.

Its practitioners claim that by an electronic diagnosis of a drop of blood, a patient's life history can be told, and his or her ailments determined.

"CURES" WERE CLAIMED.

By means of a machine known as an "electronic" machine, it is alleged to have been effected through counter vibrations.

The report of the investigating committee, written by its secretary, Austin C. Leavenworth, appears in the September issue of the Scientific American.

The findings are summed up briefly in the following:

"The so-called Electronic Reactions of Abrams do not exist at least objectively. They are merely products of the Abrams' practitioner's mind."

"These so-called reactions are with out diagnostic value. And the Abrams' electro-chemical, intended to restore the proper electronic conditions in the diseased or ailing body, is barren of real therapeutic value."

"ILLUSION OR FRAUD?"

"The entire Abrams electronic technique is not worthy of serious attention in any of its numerous variations. At best, it is all an illusion. At worst, it is a colossal fraud."

The report stated that the committee had studied the technique in detail, had attended numerous demonstrations of the "electronic" reaction, and its entire had subjected themselves to the Abrams' diagnosis in order to learn how the matter appears from the patient's point of view.

The committee procured the genuine Abrams apparatus for the purpose of first-hand study and experimentation. It was studied and made tests with a number of electronic waves.

"All in all, the report states, this committee, unbiased, as well as competent to make upon any problem, has carried on the very kind of investigation which Dr. Albert Abrams asked for time and again, in order that he might establish his claims."

"FOUNDATION OF HEALTH."

The report then proceeded to outline the method made famous by its originator, the late Dr. Abrams, who claimed he had discovered that electronic waves of the late Dr. Abrams, in fact, did exist. These electronic waves, he claimed, were the foundation of good health or ill-health.

A drop of blood contained millions upon millions of electrons, according to Dr. Abrams, each with an individual vibration or vibratory rate. By means of special apparatus he claimed he could detect these electronic waves or vibrations.

In addition to detecting disease, Dr. Abrams maintained he could tell from a drop of blood the donor's color and mental and moral traits.

By means of the electronic waves he claimed to give out, he could adjust the conditions, and restore the patient to health.

Girl McCoy Saved Says He Couldn't Be Killer

PEGGY BROWNE

To this beautiful girl Kid McCoy is not slayer of Mrs. Theresa Moss, but—"a gentleman, my friend and the man who saved my life."

Norman Selby, a woman who saved her life from the hands of the Los Angeles General Hospital, and the man "who saved my life."

"I never believe the man who saved my life guilty of murder! I gladly contribute to the defense fund I hear some of Mr. Selby's friends are going to raise for him."

WAS AMBULANCE DOCTOR.

"I have told you to New York from Hollywood. I know Norman Selby as a warm-hearted friend. I have no slaps, silly girl crush on him, but I know he could not have killed any one, particularly a woman."

"My friend, Emily Norton, and I were visiting my sister in San Diego. On a trip to Los Angeles one day I was stricken with influenza and removed to a hotel. I was desperately ill. People were dying like flies."

"Miss Norton tried to get a physician, but it was impossible. Finally Emily got a call through the Los Angeles General Hospital. They said they would send an ambulance but could not guarantee to send a physician."

"Soon a strapping big man in the uniform of an internist, came to my room. I was almost delirious and screamed that I would not go to a hospital. In his strong, capable way, the internist would treat me himself."

SAYS KID SAVED HER.

"He took my pulse and later from his kit and spoke to me soothingly. Then he issued a rapid fire of orders and directions. He did not leave until the terrible pressure of my lungs had been relieved and I was breathing normally once more."

THE TIME MOSS WAS AT THE GARAGE, according to Lawson, he told me he was asleep in a hotel under an assumed name."

Moss will be questioned again today, Keyes said.

"I do not think Moss had anything to do with Mrs. Moss' death," said Keyes, "and I am going before the grand jury tomorrow to ask for an indictment charging Norman Selby with murder in the first degree."

Lawson, the garage manager, asserted Moss visited his garage to borrow a flashlight. He saw Moss driving a car which carried a number under which Mrs. Moss' car was registered. In this car officers had previously found a bloodstained car hand.

McCoy was arrested by police, having been driving the Moss car the night of the woman's death.

LEOPOLD - WEBB HEARING END IN EIGHT DAYS

State Plans to Finish Examination of Aliens Today

Today

"CHARGE, ARE YOU?"—Fighting to break down the weight of the State's case accumulated to show that Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb are mentally sound and, consequently, eligible for the gallows, the defense put Dr. Harold D. Sager, third of the State's alienists, through another grilling cross-examination in Judge Cawey's court today.

Dr. Sager resumed the stand at the eighth week of the trial and Clarence Darrow resumed where he left off Saturday in his endeavor to show that the State's alienists found the young slayers sane merely "by looking at them."

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe plans to call Dr. William O. Krohn to the stand today as a State alienist and last of the State's witnesses.

The defense then may call one or two rebuttal witnesses, "glad to be called," to effect the testimony of Dr. R. T. Woodard, who said in effect that nobody knows much about slayers and their psychiatric infirmities.

Assistant State's Attorney John Shattuck said he believed the entire case, including the final arguments, is given to Judge Cawey Thursday or Friday.

Yesterday a persistent report that Leopold had committed suicide brought scores of curious people to the county jail.

Warden Westbrook ridiculed the possibility, although he admitted that the guard had been doubtful. Every ten minutes the guard reports on the actions of the prisoners, what they do, whom they talk with, what they say and their apparent mental condition.

Francis Milner Says Maine Boy Won Her by Line of Rich Talk

A strange romance that resulted in two hours of wedded bliss, with a Portland, Me., youth has accumulated to show that Frances Aileen Milner, 18-year-old dancer, a New York girl who entertained Boston people with her singing in "Little Nellie Kelly."

The young woman is bringing suit for annulment of her marriage with Harry Parker Leonard, son of a wealthy Portland (Me.) family.

"My marriage consisted of being hitched by a justice of the peace in Grand Rapids, Mich., a lie, a taxi ride to the hotel for another wedding and then permanent separation."

BEGAN EAST JOURNEY.

This was the characterization of her romance given by Mrs. Milner when seen at her apartment, No. 127 West Eighth street, with her mother, Mrs. Aileen Hannahan.

Mrs. Milner said that the romance started last January in Portland, Me., when the Little Nellie Kelly company, of which she was a featured dancer, was playing a week's engagement. She went on:

"We were stopping at the Victoria Hotel and while there I met the son of the proprietor, Harry Parker Leonard. He was a typical glacial youth, wore good clothes, was an excellent dancer, had a car and just three money around. He took me and several other girls to a large fortune and for a week he showed us an awful good time."

"I was not my consent to an elopement through fraud. He said that if I would have a large fortune, some day that he was receiving an income of a thousand dollars a week, and that I would have a home, everything I wanted if only I would marry him."

"We got a license, were married in the next room and then went to 'oil boy,' she said, 'and the rest of it.' And in less than half an hour, she had my husband admit that he was under the impression that she was his sister. Incidentally, this allowance was stopped when his father learned of his marriage. Harry, of course, but it did not hurt my two-hour marriage as an end."

NEW HAMPSHIRE SETS OUT 5,500,000 FISH

Concord, N. H., Aug. 18.—About 5,500,000 trout and salmon fish fry have been planted in New Hampshire waters this year and there are now approximately 1,667,000 fingerlings in the hatcheries ready for planting. Commissioner Barrett of the State fish and game department announces.

The commissioner also said that experiments toward preserving and improving the quality of the more common fish, bass, pickerel and whitefish, carried on by the department have shown such favorable results that the work is now being done on a large scale with the probability that all of the smaller ponds will soon be well stocked with larger and better quality fish.

The Klan meeting, policed by state patrolmen, was attended by about 500 persons and was addressed by an organizer who gave him the name of Noble, and his home town was given as "Middle West." Newspaper men were excluded and finally were chased off the lot when they were discovered taking the rolls into numbers of parked automobiles.

DIVORCEE FAILS TO FREE MAN HELD IN JAIL

Bay State Garage Bill Led to Bad Check Charge in New York

New York, Aug. 18.—Apprentice Magistrate for many hours and highly nervous Mrs. Marion D. Shaw, reported wealthy divorcee, was unsuccessful in procuring the release from the Tombs of Frederick Elmer, with whom she was arrested on a charge of having passed a worthless check at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Attorneys for Mrs. Shaw had arranged her bail of $3,000 and advised that the same amount was provided for Elmer.

But from the West Side Court came word that Elmer had failed to appear on August 13 in answer to a previous charge on which he was out on bail of $2,000. So on this charge he was sent to the Tombs.

Mrs. Shaw said the whole affair was a mistake.

Early in July, she said, Elmer, who had had an account in a Pattern, N. Y. bank, expected a considerable amount of money to be deposited to his credit there and drew a check for $102 and gave it to a Worcester, Mass., garage owner, in payment of a bill.

At about the same time he gave her a check for $427, which she cashed at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Elmer was arrested on the Worcester complaint, and released on bail, sent to Massachusetts, and Mrs. Shaw asserts the Worcester matter was adjusted.

FOUR BOTTLES IN JACKSON'S 'WINE CELLAR'

Have Been in Family for Four Generations, State Treasurer Says

State Treasurer James Jackson today refuted the story that the cellar in his Westwood home was well-stocked with liquor.

Mr. Jackson was accused by officials of the Antislavery league of having in his cellar a large supply of the choicest liquors. A visit to the Westwood home of the former State Treasurer had revealed two bottles of wine which have been in the family for generations and two bottles of whiskey which belong to a friend and which only not in honor be used by Mr. Jackson from the "large stock."

Mr. Jackson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, declared the story political propaganda to hurt him. He denied ever having had a large stock of wine or liquors in his cellar.

W. M. Ferguson, executive secretary of the Antislavery league, was at the door when Mr. Jackson arrived, and he was told the State Treasurer was arrested and taken to the county jail.

James Joseph was arrested and taken to the county jail.

Reggy Fosters Sail for Paris Next Month for Indefinite Stay

By BETTY ALDEN

MEMBERS of the jolly set reveling about the senior supper dances will be tremendously disappointed to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Reggy Foster are sailing next month for Paris, where they will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Foster, who has all the charm and sparkle of her Frances Hour days, returned not long ago from London, where she was presented at the British court early in the season.

Just now the Fosters are at Marlborough Neck at the summer home of his parents, the Charles H. W. Fosters. They will sail about the 20th of next month for the French capital, where Mr. Foster's business connections will keep them for an indefinite period.

To say that the young couple will be missed here is putting it mildly, for they have been much of the force in the activities of the "younger married" set.

WHATSOEVER the Vincent Club will do when the Fosters are gone I'm sure I don't know. Few Vincentes are more talented than the former "Fanny Hour." Ever since her marriage a few years ago, she has added considerably to the success of the Vincent "shows."

In fact, her "ballet dance" in "Wine Up" presented by the Vincent Club this spring, was one of the most exquisite things I've ever seen. There were many who considered it the most finished bit of the entire show.

Besides being an exceptionally graceful interpreter of Terpsichorean, Mrs. Foster is clever at designing costumes. The costumes worn in several shows staged by society folk for this or that character are the brain children of this versatile young matron, whose red-gold hair and merry blue eyes are quite as keeping with her vivacity.

A WEEK from Wednesday evening, the 27th, a group of about 100 will be given at the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marlborough Neck.

The affair is being put on for the benefit of the Children's Island Sanitarium at the Neck, and to judge by the folk who will perform that evening, a specialty attendance is assured.

Mrs. Foster is to do a dance—a "farewell appearance," so to speak. Alvin ("Pete") Stewart of the renowned company of Broadway and the program with one of his famous jigs. Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., the former Josephine de Gers, will sing, while "Joe" Seabury and Charlie Squibb are sure to make a hit with their tiny violin and piano act.

"Joe" Seabury plays a little bit of a violin which he takes out of an enormous case, while his partner performs on a miniature piano.

Bill Burke's Orchestra will play for the general dancing as well as give a special stunt. The hours of the cabaret are from 9 until 12, and tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Francis B. Crowne, 10 Peach's Point, Marlborough.

Mrs. Crowne and Reggy Foster are arranging the cabaret, which promises to be one of the jolliest events of the North Shore season.

The Fosters are going to Paris in a little bit of a yacht which they take out of an enormous case, while his partner performs on a miniature piano.

GOING ABROAD
Mrs. Reginald C. Foster (Frances Hour) will be greatly missed when she and her husband sail next month for Paris. Mrs. Foster, one of society's most graceful dancers, will take part in the event being staged next week at the Corinthian Yacht Club.

SOCIETY NOTES
MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH LINN SMITH and Miss Elizabeth Thordarson of Boston have been visiting in Newport as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Dunn at "Bonnie Crest."

William H. Coolidge of Nazareth recently arrived at Narragansett Pier for the polo tournament.

Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater gave a luncheon the other day at Pierce's in New York.

Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown, who resided in Boston for some time, is at present at "Harbour Court," her Newport villa, Mr. and Mrs. John F. A. Goff (Cornell Vanderbilt). The latter have just returned from their wedding party in New York.

BARING JEWEL ROBBER IS HUNTED

Climbs Tree to Boudoir of Wealthy Woman at New York Beach

New York, Aug. 18.—A tree-climbing burglar, who stole jewels valued at $15,000 from the boudoir of Mrs. George L. Sargent and threw a dinner party at the Sargents' home into confusion, was being hunted today as police and private detectives sought clues to help in solving one of the boldest robberies in the history of the exclusive Summer colony near the Country Club here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, the former a millionaire knit manufacturer of New Haven, Ct., had nearly finished dinner when their guests, who included Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grove, were alarmed by the wild screaming of a maid. The Sargents and the Groves dashed to the upper floor of the home and found a maid in hysterics.

She had left the lower floor only a moment or two before and heard a noise in her mistress's boudoir. Knowing that the family were all at dinner, she opened the door and then swung herself out of an open window.

When the family reached the top of the house, they found the door open and nearly ready to fall off of bearing an immense red velvet bag packed with jewels from the scene. Investigation showed that Mrs. Sargent's dressing table had been ransacked and everything of value was missing.

Directly opposite from the Sargent residence at the Summer home of William Edw. Foster, dealer of Boston and other well-known society people, reside in the group today.

COOLIDGE VERY PLEASED OVER REPAIRATIONS

Cables Congratulations to Ambassador Kellogg About Dawes Plan Success

Tymouth, Vt., Aug. 18.—President Coolidge was plainly cheered today over the successful conclusion of the international conference in London, called to put into operation the Dawes Reparations Plan, news of which was sent him in a cable from Ambassador Kellogg yesterday.

Mr. Coolidge has shown considerable interest in the negotiations in which this country was represented by Mr. Kellogg and Col. James A. Logan, and he has said he believed the accomplishment of the conference the greatest since the signing of the armistice, with the possible exception of the Washington Arms Conference. He sent a message of congratulation to Mr. Kellogg, expressing his satisfaction on the result.

Heard from his trip from Washington by two days agent largely in relaxation, Mr. Coolidge was early today up and about the farmyard with his father at the family home here. Planning only a complete rest of his vacation here, the President had no program for the day or the week.

John Colville, the President's father, told visitors at the home he was pleased to hear of the success of the conference, and remarked "I probably will find something for Calvin to do."

NEWPORT FAN COMPLAINS OF CODE

Broadcast Interference May Be Caused by Passenger Ships or Destroyers

A report was last received by the American's Radio Department that broadcast listeners in Newport, R. I., and vicinity are troubled with code interference.

The report is from Frank Blumkin, a summer resident of Shalunderstown, who reports NAP, the naval station at Newport, as the offender.

A letter from Lieutenant H. B. Shuman, of the First Naval District, in reply to a communication from the American, says:

"Our traffic is handled on wave lengths which, with a properly built receiver, could not possibly cause such interference as stated in your letter. The lowest wavelength is 800 meters, and that every station."

"I would suggest that possibly the passenger boats from Providence and Fall River to Newport and New York are the cause of a great deal of the interference. It may also be that the destroyers anchored in the harbor here at Newport cause some of the interference at local stations, as they carry on their local traffic on about 315 meters."

In order to secure enough data to act intelligently in this matter, the editor of this column would like to hear from those residents in Newport and vicinity who are troubled with code interference. If you know the code, let us know who the offender is; and if you don't, give us some idea of the approximate wavelength, the pitch of the note, time, etc.

TWO WEEKS OFF FOR MARTHA LEE

For the coming two weeks, members of the WNAC American Women's Club will miss the sparkling personality between the voices of Martha Lee and Joan Sargent, who in the 1923 broadcast. This is because Martha Lee is going to take a well-earned vacation from Fall series and broadcast, and Joan Sargent is going to pitch in for her. The articles themselves will still be from the fertile, fertile typewriter of Mrs. Lee, but Mrs. Sargent will read them.

NEW CONTEST OPENS HERE TOMORROW

Lots of Prizes and Things If You Have a Portable Set

We and Apple Sauce don't get a chance after all.

For those comes another bumper day of radio contest, with a whole freight-car full of prizes of food, and it starts tomorrow.

The new contest comes on portable sets.

If you have a portable radio receiver, and can do strange things with it, like boil tea on the tubes or tickle cockroaches with the dials, you are on the way to a prize.

Or if you can cut out SLO, London, and get WNAC, Boston, while KGO, Oakland, is going without interference, you can win another prize.

Disintegrating the making through the other on his three-cylinder rummy-flex (upper right corner), when he heard a lugubrious squeal which rose from C to high W and back again in and then rumbled along on Q flat (see upper left corner).

At 12:34, a passing milkman, looking in at the window of J. Jennings Jewer, Dillimore's next door neighbor, saw Jewer's lifeless body sprawled over his single direct-representative receiver. Investigation showed 150 volts on the plate and the ticker well over.

A special report of three airfield vacuum tubes will be given to any entrant in the puzzle contest who can solve this mystery.

The regular prizes are still with the one and only one more to go: First, Collier four-tube set (picture published today); second, Acme flex kit; third, choice of pair of Com push pull transformers or Trinty loud speaker; fourth, Four Ten-40, 250, 500-ohm transformer; fifth, General Radio 4003 mid. variable capacitor with variable gear; seventh, Perrier Kender-Kil; eighth, pair of Towson's superphones; and ninth, National four-kill Velvet Verrier dial.

Important P. S.—Apple Sauce got extra luxury Friday and ate one of the pieces of food that's purple. We made him cough up the money. These who miss a piece out of Philby's puzzle need not worry, as it won't count against him. Enough remained to show what the object was. An easy one, anyhow.

BREES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR TEST

One Week Left for Beauties
to Enter American

"May married women enter the Boston American's CHARMING girl tournament?" This question cannot over its phone today from a person who desired to enter a friend she regards as unusually fascinating.

The answer is "Yes (certainly). Some of the world's most charming women are married and have one or more kiddies. Motherhood gives to woman a charm she lacked prior to matrimony. Therefore, it would not be surprising if the judges selected a married woman with kiddies, as the most alluring person entered.

So get busy, married women! Don't let the fashions outside you. You have an equal chance with them to win that week's free trip to Atlantic City with all expenses of self and passengers paid for by this newspaper. The tournament ends next Saturday at noon.

AGES 14 TO 30 YEARS.

Husbands, nominate your wives for this free trip to America's best seaside resort during the great Atlantic City season. August 22, Sept. 2. The only stipulation is that the entrant must be between 14 and 30 years of age, in health, and not a professional model or actress.

South Boston, noted for its charming girls, has sent in its first candidate, in the person of Miss Kathleen Connelley, twenty-four years of age. She is an accountant in a Boston department store and resides at No. 424 East Fifth street. She was entered by a friend who regards her as a young woman of unusual charm and refinement.

The office of L. Levermore, manager of "Little Jesse James," the pleasing musical comedy now playing at the Wilbur Theatre, was the winner of the American's tournament. Astronomers Seeking to Solve Orb's Mysteries as He Approaches Us on Rapid Journey Eastward

Mars, with all its mystery and its glamour, is getting closer to the earth!

Of course, 34,000,000 miles are a lot of miles any way you look at them. Still, Mars is a considerable planet, any way you look at him, and perhaps it is just as well that we don't know any more about him until we are a bit better equipped to meet him on his own terms.

11 FEET

4 FEET

Below every night in the week, and every week in the year, which is even colder than some back Bay apartment houses. The Mars newspaper call up the weather bureau for heat stories when it's twenty below, and they open the beaches to the inhabitants when it's ten below!

Scientists have reached the conclusion that Mars is always freezing cold because they have peered through telescopes at great reaches of ice and snow, at what evidently are masses of ice-cracked rocks and mountains, and at almost no vegetation.

These peaks coupled with the logic that a small body's heat leaves quicker than a large body, and that high altitudes, where there is little earth heat, are always cold and thin, bring science to the conclusion.

So, in this little treatise on the habitability of Mars, we proceed from there. What manner of men do we find, if any?

First, these Martian gentlemen—if there are any—must be mammoth-sized. There is a huge foot above the sea in Persia. They have chutes nearly double the size of the ordinary, or New York variety of humanity. Their chests are even bigger than Phipps. They have the bones of the thin, spare, and so the Martians, only the Martians' chests are even bigger, "speculators" of science guess.

MONSTROUS SKULLS, TOO.

Giving them great chests produces the first part of a long-beaky body, speculation along this line furthers their surmises. They must have huge, long beaks. Their chests are so much because they are burdened with great brains as because science thinks they are further so.

Now, there is one other feature, main this that Mars's evolution is a million years ahead of ours. Mars has cooled; it took a million years or so to cool down. The earth, however, cooled in a few thousand years.

Up on Mars it's hot when it's hot! If they have electric fans in their houses they don't need to stand in the sun. They have the fans are equipped to distribute hot air.

Living in a room from which all but a tiny bit of air has been removed.

UP ON HOT ON MARS.

There is no doubt about it. When it's hot on Mars it's hot when it's hot! If they have electric fans in their houses they don't need to stand in the sun. They have the fans are equipped to distribute hot air.

WOMEN HELD AS RUM RUNNERS ON BORDER

Malone, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Adventure women from downstate are taking up the bootlegging game with a vim which has surpassed all expectations, according to officers interested in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

During the past few days a number of women, the majority of them being from downstate, have been arrested on hearing from over the moment capture seems certain. Instead they remain behind and attempt to "talk" their way to freedom.

Two women have been arrested by local enforcement officers. One is now recovering in the Alice Hyde hospital from injuries when the booting car in which she was riding plunged into a ditch east of Malone. The other, Mrs. Anna Mayo, is a widow and residing in New York City, appeared before United States Commissioner M. H. Burrows with her male companion, Edward Depreque, who claims to reside in Lake George.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

Mrs. Mayo said to the Commissioner, "I was caught and I'll have to face the music," and added that she was a widow.

As a wife and Depreque, both of whom are about thirty-five years of age, left the courtroom after furnishing bond for their appearance in Federal Court in Auburn, the women kissed her fellow prisoner, Depreque.
